Let diners see the visit through you.

Share what stood out—the food, vibe, service and moments that shaped your visit. Add a photo or video and the details you'd tell a friend. Then make the honest call: Worth It or Not Worth It.

Your details give every place its shape.

Share what mattered—food, service, value, vibe, presentation or convenience. Every detail helps diners understand the character of a place far better than a single rating ever could.

Also consider adding a small label above the graph:

What diners consistently experience

This makes the percentages feel less like unexplained ratings.

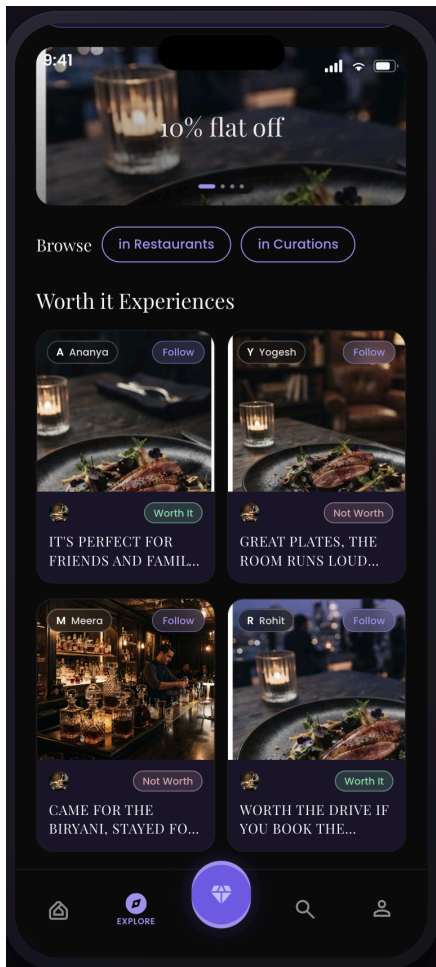

CURATIONS

Good taste deserves a following.

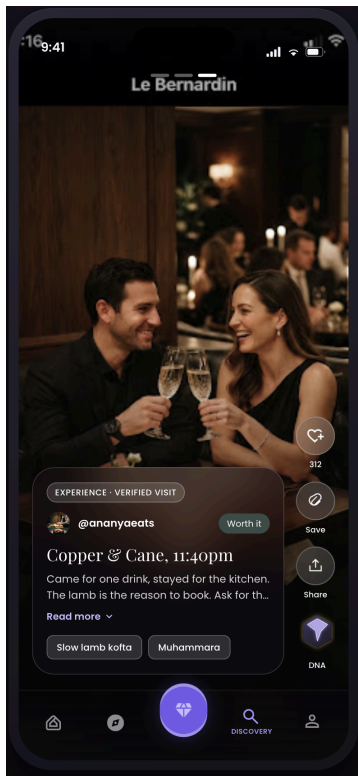

Follow people whose taste matches yours, or turn your best discoveries into collections others can save and follow. Keep them private, share with friends, or inspire everyone.

Also, replace the card image—it appears to show Tokyo while the collection says Bengaluru. That mismatch will weaken credibility.

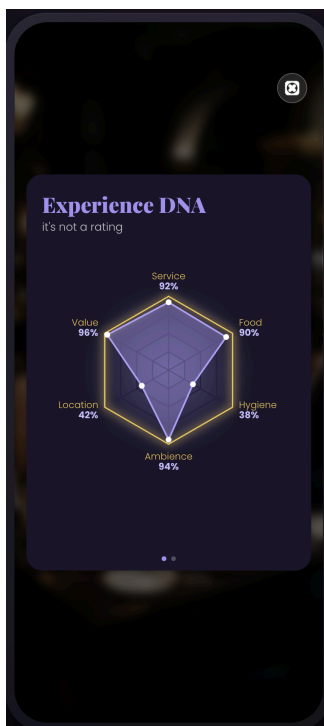

Home Page needs to show experiences.

This says Worth it Experiences but shows Not Worth it as well. Need to change the title.

Why is this the search page? Also the save icon looks like a leaf rather than a paper clip. Also where is the Amplify button?

The next page needs to be more motivating and not just two dots. I need a reason to go to the next page.
